TOP 10 LIST

MOST COMMON DISCIPLINARY ACTIONS AGAINST HEALTHCARE PROFESSIONALS

1. Don't have sexual or romantic relationships with ANY PATIENTS (with or without consent)

The Federation of State Medical Boards (FSMB) defines sexual misconduct as "behavior that exploits the physician-patient relationship sexually". This behavior may be verbal or physical and could occur in person or over the Internet.

2. Never write prescriptions to a family member or to patients you do not have an established doctor-patient relationship

While your loved ones may want to have easy access to antibiotics and other medications, this is a violation of the medical practice act. Prior to the COVID-19 pandemic, in Georgia, to establish a doctor-patient relationship you must have had an in person visit to begin that relationship. The telemedicine exception is still in effect and laws regarding telemedicine prescribing are currently under review at both the federal and state level.

3. Do not over prescribe narcotic or other medications

Inappropriate prescribing is defined as giving medications to a given patient for whom the risks outweigh the benefits.

4. Never write a prescription for narcotics without first checking the PDMP

To prevent multiple narcotic prescriptions and possible inadvertent over prescribing, you should never write a prescription for narcotics without checking the PDMP.

5. Renew your medical license on time

Failure to renew your medical license and continuing the practice of medicine is a violation of the medical practice act.

6. Be mindful of signing death certificates promptly

Georgia Death Certificates may be signed by the following medical professionals: an attending physician, a physician assistant, or an APRN. All of these providers must have access to the deceased patient's medical record, and the death certificate must be signed within 72 hours. Unless the cause of death on a death certificate is wantonly misrepresented, medical professionals have civil immunity regarding mistakes regarding the actual cause of death [§ 31-10-15(c)(3)].

7. Report Out-of-State disciplinary actions to the GCMB in a timely manner

If you have medical licenses in multiple states and you have a disciplinary action in another state, this action must be reported to the Georgia Composite Medical Board.

8. Convicted felons cannot have a Georgia medical license

If you are convicted of a felony in state or federal court you will most likely lose your license. This includes but is not limited to crimes such as domestic violence, convicted felony DUI, drug trafficking and other drug crimes, and fraud, including Medicare or Medicaid fraud.

9. Proven and adjudicated medical practice below the standard of care is a violation of the medical practice act

Multiple and egregious Med Mal verdicts or judgments could put your license at risk.

10. Losing clinical hospital privileges could result in the loss of your medical license

If you lose your clinical hospital privileges, you must mandatorily report this action to the GCMB.
